

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

I strongly oppose this action by Sinclair and see it as a direct result of the FCC's weak regulation of the media to the detriment of the public whose interests the FCC was established by Congress to protect.

It is time to return to the responsibilities for the public good that the wise men in congress envisioned in organizing the FCC 70 years ago.
